The Week That Was...

This week at Cowes, we said a fond farewell to our Year 11 students at their leavers' assembly, marking the end of their journey with us.

We have reached the conclusion of this year's GCSE and A Level examinations, and we are incredibly proud of all students for their hard work and resilience throughout the exam season.

It was wonderful to celebrate our fantastic staff on Thank a Teacher Day and recognise the dedication they show every day.

We're wishing everyone attending the Isle of Wight Festival a safe and enjoyable weekend, and remind families that Monday is a staff development day, with the school closed to students.

From the Principal's Desk

By Adrian Price, Senior Principal

Dear families,

It has been a very positive and productive couple of days in school this week, particularly on Tuesday and Wednesday. I had the privilege of spending a significant amount of time in Year 10 lessons, where I was thoroughly impressed by the focus, engagement, and maturity demonstrated by our students. In particular, I observed some excellent work in Science.

On Wednesday, I also chaired an interesting Senior Leadership Team meeting, where we began to explore strategic plans for the 2026/27 academic year. These early discussions are crucial in ensuring we continue to provide the very best educational experience for all our students.

This work will be developed further during our staff training day on Monday, when colleagues will have the opportunity to contribute and shape the next steps in our school's journey.

Finally, I would like to wish anyone attending the festival this weekend an enjoyable and safe time. Personally, I'm looking forward to The Cure - probably the best British band of the 80s and 90s.

Thank you, as always, for your continued support.

With kind regards,
Adrian Price
